PREFACE

For want of a better name we call this page a preface. We shall use it to explain the outline, which is used in the family of Peter Kuhn, as well as to call your attention to a few interesting facts which we think you should note as you read the pages of this book.

Each step in the outline represents a generation. The children of Peter and Catherine Appler-Kuhn are represented by Sections. Only seven sections will be found as only seven children grew up to leave descendants. The grandchildren of Peter and Catherine Appler-Kuhn are represented by parts. The order of the outline is as follows:

SECTION.

PART.

I. (Roman numerals)

A. (Capital letters)

1. (Arabic numerals)

a. (Small letters)

aa. (Double letters)

A capital B represents birth; D, death, and M, marriage dates. Where dates are not available dashes fill the space. Line spaces are also left where names were not reported.

One of the most interesting facts the committee noted while compiling this history was the choice of profession made by many of the family. We are able to count literally hundreds who, at some time in their lives, have practiced the teaching profession. Many continued the profession throughout life. Some have chosen the medical profession and also the ministry. Politics, national, state and county, has interested a great number in all generations. A few have made a place for themselves in the world of literature and art, and in the last generation a few have become nationally known radio artists. Not a few have chosen the profession of farming and some have become nationally known in this field. We are able to count less than two dozen divorces in the entire family.

The first Ohio Kuhn family reunion was held on Saturday, September 30, 1899, in Iron Springs Park, near Shelby, O. One hundred and twenty-five members were present and Peter Kuhn of Jackson Township was elected president, with Jesse Kuhn of Plymouth Township, secretary. The idea for a reunion of the family once each year grew out of a conversation between Catherine Haulman Taylor and Mrs. Peter Kuhn while attending a farmers' picnic. They thought the family was becoming too widely separated and sponsored a picnic dinner which developed into the Ohio Kuhn Reunion Association. The first reunion, held in Pennsylvania, was held near Greencastle in 1900. Both family reunions are held in August of each year and invitations are sent to all whose names and addresses are on file. A Kuhn family reunion has also been held in Harrisburg, Pa., during the last few years. All members of the family are welcome to attend any of these reunions.

Interest in a family history and roster was stimulated some years ago by Mrs. Clara Venable of Chambersburg, Pa., while visiting the Ohio reunion. She presented the history and roster she had been able to collect in Pennsylvania and suggested that the Ohio members assist her to complete it. This plan met with great favor and in 1926 the undersigned were appointed as the committee to assist Mrs. Venable to carry out this plan. The work was started immediately and has continued steadily throughout the intervening years. Although several vacation trips of various members of both committees were devoted in part to collecting data, most of the work was accomplished by correspondence. We realize that some of the families are not complete and some have no record, but we did the best we could with the response we were able to get from the members.

Although the members of both committees are busy people, they have donated their time to this work and the Ohio Reunion Association is financing the printing of five hundred copies of the book. Even though it is not a work of art, nor a costly treasure, we hope every family will purchase a copy and cherish it for its contents.

JOHN CHRISTOPHER KUHN FAMILY

Among the old eighteenth century families which were swept into Pennsylvania on the flood-tide of the remarkable German immigration of that period were the Kuhns, whose ancestor, John Christopher Kuhn, arrived in Philadelphia in 1733 in the ship Hope.

The family, however, is traceable back at least two generations beyond the latter; to his grandfather, John Kuhn, a magistrate of Berwangen, near the Black Forest, Germany, who died prior to November 30, 1676.

A son of the latter was George Martin Kuhn, who was assistant jurat of the court at Furfeld, a village on the Neckar, in the province of Wurttemberg. The records of Furfeld disclose the marriage of George Martin Kuhn, a translation of the same being as follows:

"Marriage, year 1676, on the 30th of November, George Martin Kuhn, son of the deceased Magistrate of Berwangen, Hans Kuhn, and Barbara, legitimate daughter of Friedrich Pommès, Justice of the Peace."

The maiden name of Barbara, wife of George Martin Kuhn, is not definitely decipherable. It may be Pommès, as given above, or Fonmes, or Ponmer.

Six children were born to George Martin and Barbara Kuhn, as follows: John Christof, Hans George, Maria Katharina, John Friedrich, Maria Elizabeth and Ann Maria. The dates of birth or baptism of these six children are all found on the records of Furfeld.

From the parish register, according to an extract made therefrom April 4, 1718, by Petrus Born, the then minister, we have the following:

"Anno 1684, on the 16th day of December, a son was born to George Martin Kuhn, assistant jurat of our court, and to Barbara, his wife, and was named John Christopher. His godfathers were George Christopher Herbst, huntsman, in the (dominion) of Huftenheim, and John Bullinger, legitimate son of the late Christopher Bullinger, citizen of this place."

From the above-cited extract from the old parish register, made by Dominie Born in 1718, we have the record of John Christopher Kuhn's marriage, as follows:

"Anno 1713 on the 31st of January, John Christopher Kuhn, legitimate unmarried son of George Martin Kuhn, was married to Margaret, daughter of the late Marz Reichss, a citizen of Sernum in Piertrigan in Grannebeinden, after having been proclaimed from the pulpit three times."

Certificate of Character

The newly married pair continued to reside at Furfeld, in the beautiful valley of the Neckar, for several years, and here two children were born to them—a son and a daughter. Then the father, mother, son and daughter removed to Hutten, where we find them in 1719. It was doubtless because of his intended removal that John Christopher Kuhn took the precaution to obtain from the minister at Furfeld, Petrus Born, the extract from the parish register, dated April 4, 1718, already referred to—for the Germans always were a prudent, methodical, business-like race.

As a further precaution the following certificate of character was obtained from the authorities at Furfeld:

"I, Johann Glisbring von Dremington, Lord of Furfeldt, Ruttenberg, Guftenhardt, Halbertshausen and Sirgolskach.

"I record and certify hereby that bearer, Johann Christof Cun, here ni Furfeldt, is not only born and raised by Christian and honest parents, belonging to the Evangelical Lutheran religion, but has also since his marriage, remained for some four years as a citizen and behaved himself in every respect in such a manner that I have always had a perfect pleasure in him.

"In view of the fact that he now, with his wife and children, wishes to go to Graubunden to his wife's folks, in the expectation of meeting with better luck, and has respectfully petitioned me to relieve him of his citizen's duties, also for a testimonial to his good behaviour, I do not wish to now refrain from complying with his request and do not only relieve him hereby from his duties, but also highly recommend him to his future authorities on account of his previous good behaviour.

"Given in Furfeldt in Creichgau, the 13th of September, 1717.

"Johann Glisbring von Dremingen."

He evidently did not tarry long at Graubunden, or Grannbeinden, the home of his "wife's folks," but settled at Hutten, probably in 1718, where we find him a police official in the following year, he being so styled in the parish register, where are entered the dates of birth and baptism of five more children—all daughters. He remained at Hutten until 1732 or 1733. In the former year he determined to sail for America, with his little family, the youngest then an infant in arms. Before taking this step, however, he applied to the German authorities for permission to leave the fatherland, which was granted as we learn from the subjoined document:

"The Highborn Count and Lord Johann Rein , Count of Hanau Rhienack and Zweibrucken, Lord of Muntzenberg and Ochsenstein, Hereditary Marshall and Chief Governor of Strassburg, etc.

"We the counsellors named to form the Council here, make known to everybody, that the bearer of these presents, Christof Chun, subject of our most gracious Lordship, at Hutten in due manner informed us that he wanted to leave his place and go to Pennsylvania and therefore asked most respectfully to be relieved of his vassalage.

"And as our above said gracious Lordship does not think of being opposed to anybody's fortune and therefore also would like to see Christoph Chun getting his share, the same in accordance with his desire, and after due settlement, has been discharged from vassalage, in witness thereof it is herewith stated, that no further claims will be made on him on that account from our most gracious Lordship and that henceforth he is to be considered a free person.

"In witness thereof the great seal of the Council of the High Court of Hanau Liechtenberg has been affixed hereunto, Given in Buchsweyer, on the twenty-fifth April One thousand seven hundred thirty-two."

The Kuhn family embarked on the ship Hope, of London, Daniel Reed, master, Rotterdam being the port of departure. Arriving at Philadelphia the passengers were duly qualified August 28, 1733. The list of passengers on the Hope, still preserved at Harrisburg, contains the names of the parents and the eldest three children, as follows, the orthography of the original entries being given: Christoffel Kown, aged 48; Margritta Kon, aged 43; Adam Simon Kown, age 19; Efa Barbra Kon, aged 13; Anna Maria Kon, age 9.

Among the papers in the possession of the family is the original receipt for the passage money of the Kuhns as follows:

"Received from Christof Kuhn twenty one pounds, five shillings and ten pence value in cash and notes which with fourteen pounds he paid in Holland is in full for four and half fraits and the head money in the Ship Hope.

"P. B. Shoemaker."

The family settled in that part of Philadelphia county which is now Berka county and the father was naturalized March 28, 1747. He continued in that section and was living in Maiden Creek township when he died, in 1753 or 1754.

The eldest child and only son of John Christopher and Margaret (nee Reicess) Kuhn was Adam Kuhn, sometimes called John Adam Simon Kuhn, who was born at Furfeld, Germany, December 26, . We have only meager knowledge concerning him—first few years of his sojourn in Pennsylvania—know that his first child was born at Germantown on November 17, 1741, which was evidently his home at the time. Afterward, however, he removed to Lancaster wherewhere he was naturalized April 8, 1744. He became a physician and practiced his profession in Lancaster, the fact has not been disclosed to investigators where he acquired his technical education. Of him a writer said, that he "was a man of bright natural parts, by the benefits of a liberal education: and as a very skillful, attentive and successful practioner of medicine."

Prominent in Public Affairs

He also became conspicuous in public affairs at his new home. From 1749 to 1753 he was chief burgess of the town of Lancaster. During the French and Indian War we find him taking an active part in the defense of his neighborhood, as is evidenced by the following note written by him:

"Sir: I take the freedom to trouble you with these few lines concerning some powder and lead if there is any to be had, as our Company is in need of it at Adam Reeds. I am not able to leave my room otherwise I would come to see you myself.

"Sir I am yours, Adam Simon Kuhn."

"Lancaster, 26th November, 1755.

"To Edward Shippen, Esq."

He was commissioned a justice of the Lancaster county courts in 1752, in 1761, in 1764, and finally in 1770. He was chosen December 15, 1774, a member of the Committee of Observation and Correspondence in Lancaster, a style of preliminary organization effected in the several counties in the formative stage of Revolution; and served as a delegate to the Provincial Convention held at Philadelphia, January 23, 1775.

Dr. Kuhn was an elder Trinity Lutheran Church, at Lancaster, where a substantial memorial tablet was erected subsequently to his death. Of him it has been said:

"He was the principal, and almost the only person who was actively concerned for the promotion of classical learning amongst the youth of that community."

Adam Simon Kuhn married, December 11, 1740, Anna Maria Sabina Schrack, daughter of John Jacob and Eva Rosina Schrack. She was born at sea October 26, 1717, and died at Lancaster in 1799. Dr. Kuhn died January 23, 1780, and the records at Trinity Church contain this entry:

"January 23, 1780, at five o'clock in the morning, died Dr. Adam Simon Kuhn, Esqr. Having suffered five years with dropsy. He was followed to his resting place by a large concourse of people, to the new cemetery of the Church of the Holy Trinity and buried. Pastor Schultz held the funeral sermon from Luke 12, 35-38. He was 69 years and one month less a few days old."

Nine children were born to Adam Simon and Anna Maria Sabina (nee Schrack) Kuhn as follows: Adam, John, Johann Fredrich, Daniel, Peter, Maria Sabina, John Jacob, Hanna and Eva. Of these, six are known to have married, and they, together with a seventh child, who reached manhood, will be referred to in due order. Nothing was known regarding the other two, to wit: John Jacob, born October 30, 1757, and Hannah, born November 13, 1761.

Adam Kuhn, the eldest of the nine children of Adam Simon and Anna Maria Sabina (nee Schrack) Kuhn, was born November 17, 1741, and, as he approached maturity, determined upon the medical profession as his life work, in which field of activity he eventually attained world-wide distinction. Having sailed for Europe in the fall of 1761, he began the study of medicine and botany in January, 1762, at the University of Upsala, Sweden, under the celebrated Linnaeus, one of the greatest scientists of that or any other age. He continued at Upsala until the summer of 1764. He subsequently entered the University of Edinburgh, and graduated in 1767.

While at Upsala, young Kuhn was practically a member of the family of Linnaeus, and between them a warm attachment was engendered. There have been preserved among the Kuhn family papers, several interesting letters written to the student's father, while the son was at college, and other letters, written to the son himself after leaving Upsala; particularly after his graduation from Edinburgh and his return to Philadelphia.

Writing February 2, 1762, to the father, Professor Linnaeus said:

"About three weeks ago, your son, of great promise, and endowed with most engaging manners, arrived here, who, after so long a voyage, has reached this academy in safety and good health.

"He will receive from me the most disinterested advice; I will cherish him with parental affection, and at no time will omit anything that can contribute to his assistance or advancement, as long as he may chose to avail himself of my counsels.

"And now, you may live at ease as it respects your son; and remain assured that as long as he is disposed to take my advice, he will be as safe with me as with his own father."

Aspiring and Amiable

Writing a year later to the father—February 24, 1763—the young man's distinguished instructor and patron said: "You recommended your son to my care; concerning whom I am now able to speak with more certainty. He lives in a house next door to me, so that I can daily enjoy his conversation, and inspect his morals and studies. His mind is always aspiring, and his very amicable disposition gives general satisfaction; so that he is beloved and esteemed by us all.

"He is unwearied in his studies in every branch of medicine; nor does he suffer a single hour to pass by unimproved. He long since began to taste the sweets of science. He daily and faithfully studies Materia Medica with me. He has learned the symptomatic history of diseases, in an accurate and solid manner. In natural History and Botany, he has made remarkable progress; such indeed as he will never repent; so that, God willing, he will hereafter see his country with different eyes, than when he left it. You have ventured to send your beloved son to a foreign country; should it be his fate to return to you, I will engage that you will never repent what you have done. In a word, he lives in the most temperate and correct manner. He observes good order in the management of his affairs; nor have any of the allurements of youth, which are apt to ensnare young men, made an impression on him. Therefore, I congratulate both you and myself on this son; and I declare most sacredly, that I have never known anyone more correct in deportment or superior in application. For the truth of this I pledge my honor."

After taking his degree in Edinburgh, in 1767, Dr. Adam Kuhn made a tour of France, Holland and Germany, and then returned to Philadelphia, in January 1768, when he was at once appointed professor of materia medica and botany in the College of Philadelphia. In 1774 he was chosen one of the physicians of the newly organized society for the inoculating of the poor, for small pox. In May 1775 he was named as one of the physicians to the Pennsylvania Hospital, a post held by him until his resignation in 1798. Upon the establishment, in 1786, of the Philadelphia Dispensary, for the medical relief of the poor, Dr. Kuhn was selected as one of the consulting physicians. The year following, 1787, the College of Physicians was founded and Dr. Kuhn was one of its charter members, and, in 1808, became its president, holding that office at the time of his decease. In 1789 he was called to the chair of the theory and practice of medicine in the University of Pennsylvania, and, in 1792, when the college and university were united, was chosen to the professorship of physic. This latter chair he resigned in 1797. He was also for many years a member of the American Philosophical Society.

At the outbreak of the Revolution, Dr. Kuhn seems to have been in sympathy with the cause of the colonists, as he was commissioned surgeon and physician of hospital in Pennsylvania, Continental service, July 8, 1776, and served until February 1777. It would also appear that he was named as physician and director general of the hospital for provincial troops, under orders for New Jersey, in October 1776. What the circumstances and reasons were is not perfectly clear, yet we know that, August 31, 1777, Dr. Kuhn was placed under arrest. Later, October 9, 1780, he was again arrested and committed to the recently erected Walnut street prison.

He had lately arrived from St. Croix, where he had evidently been residing for some time, and where he had, only five months before, married a native of that island, as will hereafter appear. The naval officer of the port of Philadelphia was instructed to take into custody the sloop Elizabeth, upon which Dr. Kuhn and his bride had arrived from the Barbadoes, the cargo to be unloaded and examined at Dr. Kuhn's expense. Nothing incriminating or otherwise objectionable being found on board, the prisoner was, after a few days' confinement, liberated, but was instructed to leave the state until the war was over. Petitions being subsequently presented in his behalf by his four brothers, John, Frederick, Peter and Jacob Kuhn, and others, permission was granted to him, March 7, 1781, to return to Pennsylvania.

In a letter written November 4, 1780, by Anna Rawle—afterward Mrs. John Clifford, and the ancestress of the Pembertons of the present day—to her mother, Mrs. Samuel Shoemaker, the following reference is made to the occurrence above mentioned.

"Dr. K. is gone down the river and landed at Newcastle. He is out of this state and, I have heard, intends to try to stay. He was very stout and refused to give bail. The Dutch parsons interfered in his favour and sent a remonstrance to council. Mrs. K. is really to be pitied; if she goes to sea she has there a thousand terrors and is very sick of all the passage, and at New Castle has not an acquaintance or connection besides the Dr."

Mrs. Shoemaker, under date of November 16, 1780, wrote her daughter, Miss Rawle, as follows:

"I am sorry Dr. K. has met with difficulties so unlooked for, and which must have chagrined him prodigiously, as he is very much attached to Phila; and his reputation not only well established there, but every day increasing. I look upon him as the first of his profession, and there must be numbers who will regret the loss of him exceedingly."

Dr. Kuhn's experience was not unlike that of the famous Fisher brothers, detailed in last Sunday's North American; also that of ex-Mayor Samuel Shoemaker—husband of the Mrs. Shoemaker above mentioned cited in the article on the Shoemaker, in the North American of October 27. The Chews, Pembertons, etc., had similar experiences, as set forth in the respective articles upon the families in question, in previous issues of this journal. Those were strenuous times, it must be remembered, and the new forces which came into power in Philadelphia with the Revolution had no patience with the conservative elements previously in control, who were opposed to the headlong policies of the revolutionists. While the latter were right as was demonstrated by the inexorable logic of subsequent events, yet it was entirely a question of the point of view in those days of thrilling strenuousness; as it is now and always will be.

Dr. Kuhn having returned to Philadelphia, he resumed his place as a prominent and pre-eminently successful medical practitioner and teacher—nearly all the laurels won by him, as above set forth, having come to him after his bitter controversies with the war party which dominated Philadelphia.

Dr. Adam Kuhn married, May 14, 1780, on the island of St. Croix, Mrs. Elizabeth Markoe, nee Hartman, widow of Francis Markoe—and daughter of Isaac and Margaret Carroll (nee Nanton) Hartman. She was born August 20, 1755 and died February 25, 1791. Dr. Kuhn died intestate July 5, 1817, and letters of administration upon his estate were granted on the 28th of the same month to his eldest son, Hartman Kuhn. As the latter was required to give security to the amount of $360,000, it can readily be seen that, for that period, Dr. Kuhn was a man of great wealth.

The children of Adam and Elizabeth (nee Hart) Kuhn were three, all sons as follows: Hartman, Charles and Willim. The last mentioned, Willim, born June 15, 1789. The other two sons married and left issue, as will hereafter appear.

John Kuhn, the next youngest brother of Dr. Adam Kuhn, was born in 1746. He graduated from the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania in 1771, and later from the University of Edinburgh. During the Revolution he acted as surgeon of the colonial forces. He married Susannah Jones of Reading and had three children—Augustus Jones, Maria and Sarah R. Dr. John Kuhn died in Lancaster November 24, 1810. As he is believed to have no descendants of the male line living in or near Philadelphia, no further reference will be made to him.

The second brother of Dr. Adam Kuhn was Johann Frederick Kuhn, who was born August 24, 1748. He was generally known as Frederick Kuhn, and, like his two elder brothers, studied medicine, graduating from the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania with his brother John, in the class of 1771. During the Revolution he served in the colonial service professionally, being surgeon of the Third Battalion, Pennsylvania Militia. In 1789 he was sheriff of Lancaster county, and was also associate judge of the Court of Common Pleas about the same time. He was likewise prominent in social affairs in Lancaster, being a subscriber to the local Assemblies, fashioned after the famous Assemblies of the Quaker City, established in 1748. He was also a communicant at St. James' Protestant Episcopal Church, of the town last mentioned. He married in 1782 Sarah Bethel, daughter of Samuel and Susan (nee Taylor) Bethel, of Lancaster. She died June 13, 1797; her husband, April 2, 1816. The writer hereof knows nothing of their descendants, if any.

Another brother, Daniel Kuhn, born November 14, 1750, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1768, and continued his studies at Upsala, Sweden, Professor Linnaeus, writing to Dr. Adam Kuhn, under date of "20 November 177—" (year not determinable) says:

"Your brother now resides at Upsala. He has been with me but three times. He resembles you extremely, both in his appearance and engaging manners."

He appears to have been admitted to the ministry, to have been appointed to the pastorate of the Swedish Church at Christiana (Wilmington), Del., and to have died in London, unmarried, before returning to America to assume charge of the parish in question.

Another of this numerous family of brothers was Peter Kuhn, who was born in 1751. He was a prosperous Philadelphia commission merchant and resided at the southeast corner of Tenth and Arch streets. He was a member of the State in Schuylkill from 1769 until 1801. Peter Kuhn married Elizabeth Keppeler, daughter of John Henry and Katerina Barbara (nee Bauer) Keppeler. She was born in 1758, and died April 10, 1799. Her husband survived her over a quarter of a century, dying November 27, 1826.

Married a "Signer"

Peter and Elizabeth (nee Keppeler) Kuhn had five children, to wit: Peter, Daniel, Catherine S., Eliza and George Keppeler. Daniel died unmarried at Gibraltar, in November, 1805, while Catherine S. died unmarried, in Philadelphia, April 4, 1825. Eliza married, at Gibraltar, May 12, 1803, Hugh Green,. The other two children, (Peter) and George Keppeler, both of whom married, will be referred to hereafter.

Maria Sabina Kuhn, the eldest sister of the five Kuhn brothers mentioned above, was born September 18, 1755, and married James Ross, son of George Ross, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, by his wife, nee Ann Lawler. James Ross was born November 28, 1753. He was commissioned June 25, 1775, captain of one of the companies in Thompson's Pennsylvania Rifle Battalion, which arrived in camp at Cambridge, Mass., August 18, 1775, being the first Pennsylvania troops to actively participate in the Revolutionary War. He attained to the grade of lieutenant colonel March 12, 1777, to rank from September 2, 1776; transferred to Eighth Pennsylvania June 11, 1777; resigned September 22, 1777. He was chosen by the Supreme Executive Council, November 17, 1783, lieutenant of Lancaster county. In October, 1789, he was elected sheriff of that county, and was re-elected in October 1790. He died August 20, 1809, at Natchez, Miss. The widow, nee Maria Sabina Kuhn, died in Lancaster county—date unknown—her interment taking place at Columbia.

The children of James and Maria Sabina (nee Kuhn) Ross were four, namely: George Thompson, Catharine Thompson, Maria Sabina and James.

Turning to the next generation of the Kuhn family we have Hartman Kuhn, son of Adam and Elizabeth (nee Hartman) Kuhn, who was born February 4, 1784. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1800. Upon the organization of the State Fencibles, May 13, 1813, he became one of the original members, and subsequently attained to the captaincy in that command. He was also a member of the committee appointed in 1813, shortly after the outbreak of the War of 1812, to prepare a defense of the harbor and ports of the Delaware river. For many years he was a member of the American Philosophical Society, and, at the time of his death, was a trustee of the University of Pennsylvania, having entered the board twenty-four years previously.

The home of Hartman Kuhn was at 1118 Chestnut street, a large double brick house, with handsome gardens attached, known to the Philadelphians of recent years as the "Baldwin Mansion." Upon the organization of the Union League—an outgrowth of the old Union Club—in 1862, they leased the Kuhn Homestead, at "an alarmingly high" rental, according to the official "Chronicle" of the League, and here the famous organization was housed until 1865, of near the close of the Civil War. To those familiar with the work of the Union League during the rebellion, it is scarcely necessary to suggest the remarkable occurrences characterizing the occupancy of the old Kuhn mansion during the memorable period in question. After the war the property was sold to Matthias W. Baldwin. It was razed in 1901.

Hartman Kuhn married, December 15, 1818, Ellen Lyle, daughter of James and Ann (nee Hamilton) Lyle, who was born October 21, 1797. Mrs. Kuhn was a granddaughter of Andrew Hamilton, who married Abigail, one of the famous Frank sisters. Said Andrew Hamilton was the son of another Andrew Hamilton, who was a younger brother of James Hamilton, Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania and Mayor of Philadelphia; they being sons of the celebrated Andrew Hamilton, the greatest lawyer of his time, attorney general of the province, etc. Mrs. Kuhn's death occurred February 8, 1852; that of her husband, November 6, 1860.

The children were nine in number, to wit: Mary, Charles, Ellen, Elizabeth, Rosalie, Hartman, Elizabeth, Sophia and James Hamilton. Of these, the first Elizabeth, Rosalie and Sophia died unmarried. Mary Kuhn married her cousin, Hartman Kuhn, as will hereafter appear. Ellen Kuhn became the wife of Manlius Glendour Evans, and was the mother of six children, one of whom, nee Ellen Lysle Evans, is the wife of the celebrated naval officer and authority on naval tactics and naval history, Captain Alfred Thayer Mahan. Mrs. Evans' sister, Elizabeth Kuhn, married George Calvert Morris, a descendant of Anthony Morris, second Mayor of Philadelphia under the charter of 1701; also a descendant of George Calvert first Lord Baltimore, likewise a descendant of Charles Willing, Mayor of Philadelphia in 1748 and 1754. Of the six children of George Calvert and Elizabeth, (nee Kuhn) Morris, four all daughters, married. Two of these are now residing in Philadelphia—Mrs. James Cheston, Jr., of "Glenthorne," Chestnut Hill, and Mrs. Radcliffe Cheston, also of Chestnut Hill. Two other daughters, now deceased, were Pierre Camblos, whose children live with their father at Fort Washington, Pa., and Mrs. Robert Winder Johnson, whose survived husband and children reside on Graver's lane, Chestnut Hill. The three sons of Hartman and Ellen (nee Lyle, will be mentioned when the next generation is reached.

Charles Kuhn, brother of of Hartman Kuhn, born April 12, 1785. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1802. His life was mainly devoted to mercantile pursuits. He married, July 28, 1808, Elizabeth Hester Yard, daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth (nee Kortright) Yard, who was born January 24, 1788, and died March 12, 1870, surviving her husband many years, his death occurring September 22, 1842.

They had eight children—Cornelius, Elizabeth, Hartman, Charles, Emily, William, Edward and a second Edward. Of these, only two married—Hartman, as already stated, to his cousin, Mary Kuhn, and Emily, to Samuel Thompson Harrison, of the Virginia Harrisons.

A HISTORIC ARREST

Of the same generation are the children of the brothers of Dr. Adam Kuhn, but, as they have never been closely identified with the history or social life of Philadelphia, it will be impossible to present them in this sketch. Brief mention, however, will be made of the two married sons of Peter and Elizabeth (nee Keppele) Kuhn. (Peter Kuhn), eldest son, seems to have spent much of his life at Gibraltar, where, indeed, both he and one of his sisters were married and where his eldest brother died. He was appointed United States consul at Genoa,

December 12, 1804, at which post he remained several years. A very notable incident occurred in connection with Kuhn's term of service at Genoa, which is worthy of citation here. From the published correspondence of Napoleon 1 the following is taken:

"To M. Fouché, Minister of Police, Rambouillet, 7th September 1807, Give orders to have Mr. Kuhn, the American Consul, at Genoa, put under arrest for wearing a Cross of Malta, given him by the English, and as being an English agent. His papers will be seized, and an abstract of them made, and he will be kept in secret confinement until you have made your report to me. This man having received a foreign decoration ceases to be an American. I am sorry, by the way, you should have communicated with the Ambassador of the United States. My police knows no Ambassadors. I am master of my own house. If I suspect a man I have him arrested. I would even have the Ambassador of Austria arrested, if he was hatching anything against the State."

United States Minister John Armstrong reported the occurrence immediately to the state department at Washington, and subsequently advised that Kuhn had been liberated.

Peter Kuhn married, December 18, 1802, Anne Storm, daughter of Thomas Storm, of New York. The writer hereof is in possession of no information regarding his descendants, if any.

The younger Peter Kuhn's brother, George Keppele Kuhn, born in 1788, was a Philadelphia commission merchant, being in partnership with his father, Peter Kuhn Sr., whom he afterward succeeded in business. He married May 30, 1817, Lucy Ann Keen, daughter of Reynold and Anne (nee Lawrence) Keen. She was born March 29, 1788, and died in 1832. They had two children, both sons, who died unmarried.

The next generation of the Kuhn family began with Mary Kuhn, eldest child of Hartman and Ellen (nee Lyle) Kuhn, who married her cousin, Hartman Kuhn, son of Charles and Elizabeth Hester (nee Yard) Kuhn. This branch of the family, the senior line of descent, is now represented by C. Hartman Kuhn, well and favorably known in the social and financial world of the Quaker City and who resides at 1712 Spruce street; and by the latter's nephews and nieces, James Hamilton Harris, of 2300 Locust street; Hamilton Kuhn Harris of Devon; Mrs. Charles Louis Boone, likewise of Devon, and Mrs. Rowland Huntly Gordon, whose home is in London, England.

Charles Kuhn, the eldest son of Hartman and Ellen (nee Lyle) Kuhn, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1839, was admitted to the bar and married Louisa Catherine Adams, daughter of Charles Francis and Abigail (nee Brooks) Adams, granddaughter of President John Quincy Adams, and great-granddaughter of President John Adams. Mr. Kuhn's life was largely spent abroad, both he and his wife lying there—the former in France and the latter in Italy. They had only one child, a daughter, who died in infancy.

Charles Kuhn's elder brother, Hartman Kuhn, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1849, and from the Harvard Law School in 1852, and married Grace Morris Cary, daughter of William F and Nancy (nee Cushing) Cary, of New York. Mr. Kuhn died in Rome while sleeping. They had only one child, a son, Hamilton Kuhn, who died unmarried.

James Hamilton Kuhn, the youngest brother of Charles and Hartman Kuhn, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1857, and was killed in battle at Newmarket Cross Roads, near Richmond, Va., June 30, 1862, he being a first lieutenant in the Twenty-seventh Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers.

HISTORY OF PETER KUHN

The history of Peter Kuhn, father of the great family recorded in the outline of this book, is brief but interesting.

The following sketch was written by his grandson, Samuel Kuhn, son of Samuel and Catherine Smith-Kuhn, and was found in the old Bible now owned by Mrs. Mable Kuhn Riley of Norwalk, O. We quote as written:

"Peter Kuhn, my grandfather, was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1748 and came to America in 1760. For a living, hired to a farmer in Lancaster county, Pa., was a Cooper by trade, and mostly followed teaming from Lancaster to Philadelphia.

After being in America five or six years he resolved to visit his native country in Germany and to receive a small fortune. He had a safe passage out but on his return the Captain was to sail to London and already in sight of the lighthouse, their ship was overtaken in a storm and badly wrecked and damaged to the extent that it took twenty-four days to repair the wrecked ship and to get into the London port where they remained some days. From there they crossed the Atlantic to Philadelphia.

He again followed the old occupation for a few years, then married a lady by the name of Catherine Appler in 1768 and in 1771 he moved, with his little family to Franklin County, Pa., arriving in August the 18, and followed farming to the end of his days in 1807, having raised a family of seven children, five boys and two girls, David, Samuel, John, Peter and George and Elizabeth and Catherine.

Grandma, Catherine Kuhn, died in 1810 in Mercer county, Pa. They both lived to a good old age and were highly respected for honesty, industry and Christianity." Samuel Kuhn.

On the lid of an old Bible, brought to America by Peter Kuhn, as a part of his inheritance we find this statement, written in German: "This Bible belonged to my ————— Kuhn and was born, in —41 the 11 November in the —————, in Alfinger County. The blank spaces are words that have been torn off and destroyed. Beneath it we find this statement: "—— married ——— (two words can't translate) Catherine Appler, in the 20th of November 1751 she was in this world born in Pennsylvania." And also this: "God was with us in peace and harmony to the end." We also find the names of each child of the family with the date of birth and the sign in which each was born. They are given on the first page of the outline. Several of the children died in childhood and we find a statement, which speaks of a great malady in the family. This was written on a fly-leaf of the Bible and is so badly worn that it cannot be translated literally. A part of the above is written in old English script in German and a part is written in English with English script.

The Bible is one of Martin Luther's first translations. It was translated in 1522 and printed in 1534. It is bound with wood covered with leather, although it shows wear and much handling, it is still intact except for the front lid and the first few pages. It is ten inches wide, twenty inches long and five inches thick. It has been handed down to the eldest son in each family since coming to America, and is now the property of John Kuhn of Cleveland, O., and is kept in the vault of the First National Bank, at Shelby, O., where it may be seen at any time.

In the library in Harrisburg, Pa., we find the following:

"On the list of foreigners who took the oath of allegiance, Peter Kuhn, arrived from Rotterdam and Portsmouth, September 20, 1763, on the ship Sarah, Cap't. Francis Stanfell."

We conclude from this that he took the oath of allegiance after returning with his "small fortune."

Nothing is known of his parents, nor do we know who came with him to America. The presence of the John Christopher Kuhn family, a part of whose history is also given in this book, must have had some influence on him, else so young a lad would hardly have come so far without his parents. This family came from the same community in Germany in 1733 and were undoubtedly related to him although the connection cannot be made here in America. Lack of funds prevented us from hiring a genealogist to trace the connection abroad. The fact that he came directly to Philadelphia to settle also convinces us that a relationship existed.

In traveling through Germany today, one gets a thrill as they see the name Kuhn, Kuhn (Umlaut), Kohn. The thrill doubles too, when you really meet these people and see the resemblance to the Kuhns here in America. In talking with them and also with other people in the villages or cities where you see these names and meet these people, they tell you that the Kuhn family as a whole are very honorable and upright citizens. Many of them hold official positions in the cities. We also learned from experience that many of the family names the same, such as Philip (one of the leading hotels in Minnheim, Germany, has as its manager, Philip Kuhn). George, ("Georg" Kuhn has one of the largest "Backeri" in the city of Munich). Much more interesting and valuable material might be found if it was possible to get hold of the right parties. But you can rest assured that the entire section of the Black Forest and Wurtemberg is teeming with Kuhns.

The early arrival of Peter Kuhn in America, brings to mind the war of the Revolution and we find the following on page 287, volume one, sixth series of the Pennsylvania archives: "I hereby certify that one Peter Kuhn, was a private in Captain Adam Foulk's Company, Fourth Battalion, Pennsylvania Militia, when called into actual service July, 1777 and paid December 2, 1780." We are unable to say whether this refers to the object of this sketch or to a member of the John Christopher Kuhn family, who also lived in Philadelphia.

HISTORY OF SAMUEL AND CATHERINE SMITH-KUHN

Samuel Kuhn, second son of Peter and Catherine Appler-Kuhn, was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, in February, 1771. In August of that year his parents moved to Franklin County where they purchased a farm near Greencastle, Pa., and not far from the Brown school house. Here he grew to manhood, married Catherine Smith and continued to live on the farm, where they reared a family of twelve children, one of whom departed this life in childhood. Samuel died in 1826. His son, David, farmed the land until after the death of the mother in 1840. Their son, Peter, died in 1839 and a daughter, Elizabeth, died in June, 1840, two months after her mother. Catherine and Martha each received $100 for taking care of their mother. The farm remained in the Kuhn name until a few years ago, when it was sold into strange hands by its last owners, Russell and John Kuhn.

HISTORY OF JOHN AND ELIZABETH REYMER-KUHN

The history of this family is so closely interwoven with that of Samuel and Julian Reymer-Kuhn that we are making no attempt to separate them. We therefore refer you to part four of this section.

We will use this space to copy one of the letters written by John and Samuel Kuhn to their brother David in Greencastle, Pa. The letter was written on a double sheet of foolscap paper, three pages were written full and the fourth was used as an envelope. It was folded to the size of an ordinary envelope in use today, sealed with a drop of wax and cost twenty-five cents to send it. No stamp was used. It was dated October 29, 1840, just seven years after the brothers had settled in Ohio. The letter follows:

"Plymouth Township, Richland County, Ohio, October the 29th, 1840. Dear Sir: I take the liberty to inform you of our health and so on. I received your letter dated August the 29th, 1840, which was satisfactory to all of us, informing us of your health and your business and so on and stating to us of Elizabeth and George Reymers death. The news was to our sorrow. We are all well at present thanking the Almighty for it and I hope these few lines may find you in the same state of health. Also you had sale of mothers movable property which I think was right, and you farm on the shares which we are agreed but you should have stated what share you gave or take, but I am glad to hear that you will stay on the place so that it does not go into strange hands.

"You say that this summer was very dry and that corn crops have failed. You have good markets by your tell and you have stated about John S. and John's affairs. In my notion John is all together to blame. The team was a good one and teaming wages then were generally good; when we left Franklin county for the west, from the time of starting to the time of landing we were nine weeks on expenses and it cost us both together about $75.00 with our families and five horses. Now by this you may easily discover that it was John's mismanagement, falling behind hand, although I do not want to say much about it and howsoever this is not persuing the course of your letter and so on.

"Catherine and Martha are each to have one hundred dollars for attendance on mother's fatiguing illness and we freely grant them to have it, as they had their hands full to do with her. David Helvering told me how she conducted herself sometimes and I think that would make themselves reasonably well paid.

"I took the lawyer's lines to Fannie McCrea and she signed it. You have covered the greater part of the house, mother's sale amounted to $1500, and I think that was well sold. The best for all of us, in my notion, would be for to have the place sold if there is nothing in the way.

"You wanted to know what part of the place we sold to mother. We sold to her our eleventh of the place only.

"Fannie wants you to sell her share of the grain and send her the money as soon as you can. Fannie and William are doing well.

"Markets here are middling dull. At Portland wheat is 68c, rye 31c, corn (Do,) and oats 16c. Potatoes 12½c, hard times and much groaning about money. It would be much satisfaction to you to come and pay us a visit or you and all that are there yet settle up the affairs and come to the west and get yourselves land and settle here for I know if you were here you would say the back woods must be farther on toward the setting of the sun.

"Samuel."

Plymouth, Richland County, Ohio, 29th October, 1840. Dear Sir: I saw a letter that you sent to Samuel informing me of your doing that you had sale the 30th April last which amounted to $1500. That George Reymer is dead, you are farming on the shares, had a dry summer and the price of markets. John S. has not renewed my judgment against him. Catherine and Martha making charge $100, each, putting roof on house, cost and so on and so on.

Elizabeth died the 19th of June and some other items. You will farm the place on the shares next year which I am agreed to. Catherine and Martha each to have $100. I am agreed to also. You wanted to know what part of the place I sold to mother. One undivided eleventh part of it. I sent or wrote to George in my last letter, he should pay your legacy of father's estate. You did not state whether you got it or not. S. and I requested him to pay Peter's legacy to mother which he could not do when she was dead, now I don't know whether it is to be paid to her estate or to heirs. You or him can ascertain that by your attorney and let me know in your next letter.

About John S. I know not what to write, but think it high time that he would pay me some money, for I waited a long time on him, if you see him talk to him about it, what he is going to do about it.

We are all well at present, thank kind Providence for it. We had a fruitful year except the wheat. The fly cut some of it although there is a great deal on the county. Money scarce article, tomorrow is our election day for electors for president. Monday and Tuesday was cold, since that it rained. Remain your friend, John Kuhn.

David Kuhn.

Since there is room in the letter yet I will fill it up with something or other. When you get this letter and mother-in-law is in your neighborhood I wish you would read it to her. And tell all our friends of our health. I am sorry that I am engaged so that I can not leave home or I would have paid you a visit long ago and brought mother-in-law out but as for her to come to the west I am confident that she could easiest come in the stage and she would be welcome ten thousand times ten thousand with us but I say to you all settle up your business and come to the west and get you land here. There is a good and cheap lots here, for our part we feel well satisfied here in this part of the country. Since we came here we had but little chance to clear money there was only about thirty acres cleared and making our living and building two houses and fencing over one hundred acres of land and clearing the greater part of it and building a barn and repairing the old barn has kept us agoing but we are getting over the worst now.

Last summer was not so dry as two summers before but the fly cut about 13 acres of our wheat, it may probably give one hundred bushels of wheat. Of 13 acres of the prairie, whereon I now live, we had 560 dozens of wheat. We have two old stacks of wheat yet, with the old and the new crop of wheat we have over one thousand dozens of wheat to thresh this winter, and 275 dozens of rye. Our hay crops were light this summer. Oats and corn came in good and the wheat crops generally look well and so forth.

A man was hung at Lower Sandusky (Fremont) about the last of September by the name of Charly Moore, a tailor by trade. John Shoup used to know him. He lived in Paris and had a wooden leg. What brought him to the gallows was intemperance. In the town of Lower Sandusky he was in a grocery store and was drunk and he wanted more liquor from the owner of the store. He refused giving him more and told him he had too much already upon which Charly Moore drew his dirk knife and stabbed him. He died in a few minutes, then said Charly, throwing down his dirk knife, "there — you, I have killed one man, now take and hang me." So much for intemperance it brings many to the gallows and many, many thousands fill drunkards graves. It is a very great evil in our United States. The best way I know, for I have tried it for three years, past, to touch not, taste not, handle not the unclean thing.

At the present time I am working at my house to make it warm, and in a few weeks we will get the thrash machine at our wheat, and David if you don't come out this winter to see us, Jacob can surely come this fall yet and stay this winter with me. There is a school handy here if he wants to go to school and if he don't like this country in the spring he can go back again but I know if he comes here he will not want to go back again. The railroad from Mansfield to Paris (Plymouth) is working on and in the spring the company is going to push it all they possibly can. No more at present, but remain your friend, Samuel Kuhn.

The old cabin, spoken of in this letter, which was built on the John Kuhn farm is being torn down this spring. It has been in very good condition until recently when the roof fell in, making it necessary to dispose of it. The well from which the family drew water with an old oaken bucket is still in use and water is still drawn with a bucket lowered in the well. The farm is now owned by Burt E. Kuhn, a grandson of John Kuhn, who lives on the farm.

The cabin they built on the marsh lot, where Samuel Kuhn lived, was torn down a few years ago, when it became impossible to keep it in repair. This farm is owned by Jesse Kuhn, a grandson of Samuel Kuhn. The old building site was abandoned and new farm buildings were erected along the paved highway, where the owner now resides.

HISTORY OF FAMILIES OF JOHN AND ELIZABETH REYMER-KUHN AND SAMUEL AND JULIAN REYMER-KUHN

The history of these two families is so closely interwoven that we are making no attempt to separate them. Brothers having married sisters brought about a closer relationship which exists even in the present generation.

The following history of their trip to Ohio, was written by Samuel on the fly leaf of his Bible, now in the possession of his grand-daughter Mrs. Mable Kuhn-Riley, of Norwalk, O.

"On Tuesday, the twenty-third day of April, 1833, my brother John Kuhn and myself with our families, John's family consisted of wife and three children and with my wife and one child, four months old, left Antrim Township, Franklin County, Pa., for the purpose of getting homes in the western part of Pa. But not being pleased with rights and titles of lands in that state, having looked around and having remained three days with an Uncle John Crill in Mercer County, we then concluded to go to Ashtabula Co., Ohio and remained there two weeks looking around over the country and not liking the land and the timber and titles and the agricultural mode of that part of the state of Ohio, we resolved to go from there to Richland Co., by way of Cleveland and Medina to Wooster. At that time the fever ran high in Wayne and Richland County of the people going to Perrysburg in the Maumee country. We also started from Wooster for the Maumee and having gotten as far as lower Sandusky, now called Fremont, four miles beyond that place the country was called the black swamp, we began to think we had gotten rather a little too far into the back woods. Remaining there three days we resolved to return back as far as Richland Co., and rent there or perhaps buy a small home and as there was no chance to rent we bought a quarter section from a Mr. John Aldridge for one thousand dollars.

"We bought in company and lived seven years together, clearing up, building and buying more land, then separated, John keeping and remaining on the quarter section, I removing on the marsh lot, which lands we held..

"John departed this life the fourth of March 1865.

"Samuel Kuhn."

Samuel Kuhn and Julian Reymer were married on Thursday December 8, 1831, in Antrim Twp., Franklin Co., Pa., by the Rev. Frederick Augustus Sholl, Pastor of the German Reformed Church at Greencastle, Pa. After the death of his first wife he was married to Miss Mary Janett Hoffman, on Jan. 20, 1831, by Rev. O. E. Leake, pastor of the German Reformed Church at Shelby, O.

A more descriptive history of the settling of these two brothers in Ohio was written later by Peter Kuhn, a son of Samuel Kuhn, and because it contains some interesting facts and data not given in the above quotation, we quote as follows from it:

"Five children of the family of Samuel and Catherine Smith-Kuhn came to Ohio to live. The first to come was Sarah and her husband John Shook. They settled in what is now Toledo, O. Then came John and Samuel Kuhn, the principals of this sketch, and a sisiter, Fannie Kuhn. A younger brother, Jacob Kuhn came a few years later.

"John and Samuel having married sisters, were brought closer together and not being willing to undertake a heavy debt, which would have been necessary to purchase land in Franklin Co., that was selling at $30 to $50 per acre, they decided to move their families to the much talked of state of Ohio. Final preparations having been made for such a trip they started on April 23, 1833, in covered wagons.

"John's family consisted of wife and three children, Margaret, Elizabeth, and Cyrus. Samuel's consisted of his wife and one daughter, Louisa Catherine, four months old. They were accompanied by their younger sister, Fannie, then sixteen years of age and a distant relative, John Shoup.

Such an undertaking for people who had scarcely been twenty miles from home before and with friends and relatives trying to persuade them to stay at home, took some courage. Their first destination was to Pittsburg or Allegheny City, where an uncle of their wives lived, Uncle Peter Reymer, and also a sister of their wives lived there. Her name was Mrs. Nancy Bush, and she lived nine miles east of Pittsburg. This distance by the pike was about one hundred and fifty miles. Nothing occurred to mar the progress of the trip until they came to the Allegheny river, which they crossed on the ferry. The women of the party were much concerned about this and very fearful about the outcome of such a venture, especially when told that they would have to drive the horses and wagons on the boat. They were afraid the boat would sink with such a heavy load. Mrs. Samuel Kuhn, being somewhat timid, began to cry and a large boatman came to her and told her that he, being a good swimmer, would save her first, if anything went wrong, if she would give him ten cents. Then the captain gave the command, "all men to the poles," and they were over before she knew they had started.

From Pittsburg they were heading for Mercer Co., Pa., where they had an uncle living by the name of Crill, at which place they tarried several days. He advised them to go near Cleveland to purchase land, as it would some day be a large city, being then a village of four or five thousand people. They went there and could have bought three miles from the lake where boats now load and unload their cargoes, for from $15 to $30 per acre. But this land was better suited to dairy purposes than to raising of grain and they did not buy. They were then advised by people in this community to go to Richland Co., which then comprised most of what is now Ashland Co. This Co., was famed for its fine timber, rich farm land and bountiful crops and only fifty miles from Cleveland. They took to the wagons again and upon arriving here found it much as it had been described. This land was quite well improved and was selling from $15 to $25 per acre. These prices were still too high and they were directed a little farther west in what is now Richland Co. Here land was much cheaper and they stopped at a log schoolhouse, located on the farm in Plymouth Twp., which they later purchased, and which is now known as the Kuhn school.

A man by the name of Aldrich offered to sell his farm of 152 acres if he could get his price, which was $1000. The brothers did not buy because this was thirty-six miles from the mouth of the Huron river on Lake Erie, which was their nearest market. As this was quite an item they concluded they would go up stopped at a crossroads called Hammers Corners. This was a blacksmith shop and the smiths name was Hammer. The land here was too low and they decided toward Sandusky where they would be nearer a market for their grain. They to retrace their course to Plymouth Township and if their man had not changed his mind, they would purchase that farm. When they returned he said he would stand by his agreement providing his wife would sign the deed. She rebuked him in no mild terms but when Uncle John informed her that by signing the deed she would receive $10, all for her own, her better qualities returned and the deal was closed. This was June 10, 1833 and the two families and the sister, Fannie, lived together until 1840 when Samuel purchased the farm now owned by Jesse Kuhn, a grandson, where he lived until his death. These two brothers were land owners in Ohio for the remainder of their lives."

Many other interesting historical facts may be gleaned from old letters, which were written by them to the home folks in Pennsylvania and to a nephew, Samuel McCrea, who had gone to California during the gold rush and continued to make that his home. In them we find that many trips were made to Pennsylvania to the homes of their parents. Some on foot, some on horseback, and later a few by coach. On one trip made by Mr. and Mrs. John Kuhn and Mrs. Samuel Kuhn the mothers carried baby sons on horse back with them, Mrs. Samuel K. taking Phillip and Mrs. John K. taking Samuel Jr. Before they left for Pennsylvania Samuel purchased a cook stove for his daughters to cook on while their mother was gone, as she was fearful of their ability to cook in the fireplace. Her daughters, Louisa and Ellen were still quite young.

We are sorry space does not permit us to relate more of these interesting facts, but the letters may be read by any who desire to do so.

Because of his musical talent, Samuel Kuhn is known in the community in which he lived as "Fifer Kuhn." He led a band of fifers and drummers for many years. This band played at most of the holiday and political celebrations, and farmers picnics in the county and surrounding country.

Two of his sons, Philip and Peter, served in the Civil war, as musicians and returned without injury.

Fannie Kuhn was born November 3, 1816, near Greencastle, Franklin County, Pa., and moved to Ohio in 1833 with her brothers, John and Samuel and their families. They drove through with teams and covered wagons. She made her home with her brother John and family until 1836, when she was married to William McCrea and moved on a part of the old Harley farm near McKendry Church, Plymouth Township, Richland County, Ohio, which was her home until here death. There were seven children in the McCrea family. Samuel, the only one who had any heirs, moved to California and there reared his family. William McCrea, the father, died in 1846. Mrs. Fannie McCrea continued to live with her family on the farm until 1855.

In 1855 Fannie McCrea married Thomas Sawyer. Mr. Sawyer came to Ohio from northern New York in 1833. There were two children in the Sawyer family.

Fannie Kuhn McCrea Sawyer died May 10, 1882, and Thomas Sawyer died March 25, 1883. They, with the children who died, all rest in the Hanna graveyard in Auburn Township, Crawford County, Ohio, except Samuel and Richard McCrea.

Richard McCrea strayed away from the Richland county home, where he went to live after his father's death, and was never found. It is supposed he became the prey of wild beasts which roamed the forests in that early day.

The members of the Samuel McCrea family will be found in Grass Valley, Nevada County, California if any care to correspond with them.

The Sawyer family are residing in northern Ohio and addresses may be obtained from the Secretary of the Reunion Association.

HISTORY OF THE JACOB KUHN FAMILY

Jacob Kuhn was born in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, November 26, 1824. He lived with his brother George in Pennsylvania until he was 21 years of age, his father having died when he was a lad of 2 years.

He attended school at the Brown School house where on July 26, 1764, a party of three Indians murdered the school teacher named Brown and killed and scalped ten of the pupils. One of the scholars, a boy, left for dead, recovered, and told the story. A monument now marks the place and the spring still exists where the one surviving lad crawled to wash the blood from his wounded head.

Jacob came to Plymouth Township, Richland County, Ohio, in 1845 walking all the way and averaging 35 miles per day. He lived with his brother Samuel for three years, farming on the shares. In the year 1848 he returned to Franklin County, Pennsylvania on horse back, sold the horse for $10 more than he had paid for it and walked back again carrying with him in his belt and boots $1,600 in gold, of which $500 belonged to his brother, John, as his share of his father's estate. This time he only averaged 30 miles per day.

In 1849 he bought 40 acres near his brother Samuel and lived here with his niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Patteson until 1851 when on November 20 he married Mary Shaffer of Jackson Township, Richland County, Ohio. In 1865 he sold the farm and bought the George Shaffer, his father-in-law's farm in Jackson Township of 190 acres where he lived until his death August 25, 1876.

Jacob and Mary Shaffer Kuhn were the parents of four sons and three daughter, George U., Jacob M., Samuel, Franklin, William, Mary C., Martha, Clara M.

Mary Shaffer, wife of Jacob Kuhn, was born March 13, 1827, and died May 18, 1892. She was the daughter of George and Mary (Detrick) Shaffer, and came with her parents from Franklin County, Pennsylvania, in 1839 in wagons, locating in Richland County, Ohio. Mary Detrick, mother of Mary Shaffer Kuhn was the daughter of Lewis and Julian Detrick, she was born March 28, 1792 and was the tenth child of a family of 12 children, 7 boys and 6 girls. She died June, 1866.

Jacob Kuhn and wife were charter members of the Reformed Church of Shelby, Ohio, where they retained their membership until death. Mr. Kuhn served in the capacity of Elder and Treasurer of the church for many years. The early history of this church serves as a fitting memorial to his life of service and devotion to his God.

HISTORY OF CRILL FAMILY

Elizabeth Kuhn, daughter of Peter and Catherine Appler-Kuhn, married John Crill in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, where they lived until the year of 1806.

Early in the year of 1806, Mr. Crill went to Findley Township in Mercer County, where he bought land on which John L. Crill now lives. In the fall of that year he brought his family to this farm. They came by team and stopped at the old Herrington hotel in Mercer long enough for Mrs. Crill to make a quantity of bread. They slept the first night on their farm in the wagon-bed and the next day erected a log cabin. Here they lived the remainder of their lives and reared the family whose names appear on the following pages. It was here that Mrs. Crill's mother came after the death of her husband, Peter Kuhn, and remained until her death in 1810.

It was here also that Mrs. Crill's nephews, John and Samuel Kuhn and their families and a niece, Miss Fannie Kuhn, stopped to make bread on their way to Ohio in wagons in 1833. Mr. Crill advised the brothers to go to Cleveland to purchase land as this city would some time become one of the great commercial centers of the country and land would rise in valuation very fast. They acted on this advice but as the land was more suited to dairy farming they turned south to Richland County where they settled.

Mr. and Mrs. Crill were members of the Lutheran Church in their community.

OTHER KUHN FAMILIES

Many other Kuhn families have been found but they all came to America during the nineteenth century and cannot be connected with either of the two families who came before the Revolution. A few of these families who responded to the committee's request for information are listed below.

The first of this group to come to America, during the 19th century was Philip Leopold and Elizabeth Gernant-Kuhn who came to York, Pa., from Diedenhausen bei Berleberg in Germany and settled in York Township, Tuscarawas County, Ohio, in 1809. They were accompanied by John Francis and Elizabeth Kuhn-Gernant and were the third settlers in this township. Mr. and Mrs. John P. Kuhn reared three children, John Philip, Jr., Catherine and Elizabeth. Elizabeth married Leopold Fox and reared one daughter whose married name is Hominghaven. This family reside in Indiana. The son married Catherine Befer and reared six children, John Philip, Francis, Daniel, Tobias, George and Elizabeth Ann. Of this family only Tobias and Danel were married. Daniel married Rosina Interwell and reared two children, Ellen Naomi wife of John Wenger and Miss Leona Catherine who resides in New Philadelphia, Ohio. The naturalization papers of John Philip Sr., are in possession of the last named.

The second of this group is that of Christian Kuhn who married Holana Sophia Stoll in 1829 and arrived in New York on September 8, 1832. In 1837 they moved to Bucyrus, O., where they lived until 1848 when they settled on a farm in Whetstone Township, Crawford County, Ohio, and resided there until their death. Christian Kuhn was born in Heinereth Kanigreich, Wittenberg Germany, on July 27, 1804. They were the parents of ten children as follows: Christian Fredrick, D., in infancy; Johanna Barbara, wife of John Berk; Lewis Fredrick, D., 1833, M. Elizabeth Kiefer; Fredrick, D. 1912, M. The third family of this group to come to America was that of August and Fredrich Kuhn, brothers, who came from Ballaburg, Germany, S. W. Dieden Hausen, in 1857. They settled in New Philadelphia, Ohio. Mrs. Ivian Crall of Bucyrus, O., is a daughter of August Kuhn.

The fourth and last of this group is Karl Ludwig Kuhn who came to America in 1882 and settled in Sandusky, O. In 1884 his sister Caroline Kuhn Hoffmon joined him in America. Another sister Charlotte remained in Baden, Germany, the old home of this family. A brother, Prof. Fredrick Kuhn, also remained in Germany. His father's name was August Kuhn and his grandfather was Conrad Kuhn. His only daughter, Mrs. Trummer, lives in Sandusky, Ohio.
